The Commodore® Connection.

Linking from the U.S.

Connecting to Q-Link is easy! All you need is a phone, modem and this local access directory.

The Q-Link software will prompt you to enter your local access number during registration. Be sure to choose a number in the area located closest to you; if it is in your local calling area, it will be handled by your phone company as a local call. However, you may want to check with your phone company to verify that this is the case. If you access Q-Link via long distance, you will be charged at the long distance rate by your phone company.

Can't find the number?

If you cannot find your access number please call Customer Service at 1-800-392-8200 or 1-703-883-0788 in Canada. Refer to the Member's' Guide for complete instructions on entering or changing access information.

For QuantumLink's Terms of Service, Billing and related information, please see the on-line Customer Service Center. Your use of the Service constitutes your acceptance of the Terms of Service, Billing and related information.

Linking from Canada

Local access to Q-Link from Canada is available through Datapac in over 85 locations. Datapac users will incur an additional $.15 (U.S.) per minute telecommunications surcharge while connected to Q-Link. Datapac numbers are preceded by an exclamation point (!) and there are different access numbers for 300 baud and 1200 baud modems. When entering your local access number, be sure to enter the exclamation symbol (!) in front of the number.

Tymnet numbers are available in a limited number of Canadian cities. If you connect through one of these numbers, you will incur an additional $.06 (U.S.) per minute telecommunications surcharge for the time you are connected to Q-Link. All Tymnet access numbers are preceded by a slash. When entering your local access number, be sure to enter the slash (/) in front of the number.

Datapac and Tymnet access numbers for selected Canadian cities are listed at the end of the U.S. local access listing.

These telecommunications surcharges are in addition to your regular membership and Plus time charges and will be included in your Q-Link bill.

Canadian Datapac Access Numbers

There is a 15 cent (U.S.) per minute ($9.00/hour) communications surcharge to connect to Q-Link through Datapac.

When entering your local access number, you must enter the exclamation symbol (!) before entering the number, as a "!" symbol informs the Q-Link access software to use the Datapac sign-on procedure.
